JESS'S BEDROOM

My squarish bedroom is the smallest in the house, but I can still fit everything I need into it. I have a bed right in the middle, which takes up quite a bit of space, but I like it that way. You may find me laying there reading a book in the natural light coming through my window, which is my main source of light. The storage is great because it is hidden away above my wardrobe, which is built into the wall, although most of my stuff goes under the bed. There is a big black shoebox beside my bed which fits all my shoes in it. There is a mirror hanging on my off-white walls above a small table. Next to them I have tall, white drawers bulging with clothes. I have a white bedside table with an alarm clock, a rose red touch lamp, and a blue bluetooth speaker.
